AN INVITATION FROM DEB DANA

As therapists, it is our responsibility to be regulated and bring regulating energy to our clients.

In fact, most of the issues our clients bring to therapy have a common underlying theme:

da dysregulated nervous system.

And those dysregulated nervous systems can look like anxiety, depression, panic, burn out, insomnia, traumatic stress reactions... the list goes on.

Understanding our own nervous system as well as our client’s autonomic nervous system through a polyvagal lens gives us the skills and roadmap we need to reliably help clients re-shape their systems and re-write their stories – no matter what specific issues or symptoms they bring in to therapy!

Imagine knowing that no matter what a client brings to your office, you’ve got a reliable roadmap to begin helping them untangle the knots and begin the journey toward wellbeing.
Polyvagal Theory has profoundly changed my practice. I now believe therapy begins with helping our clients know themselves through the language of their own bodies and nervous systems.

That’s why I’ve developed, along with my most trusted inner circle of trainers, this foundational training program to help you bring Polyvagal Theory into your practice with confidence and guide you on the path towards becoming truly polyvagal-informed.

This comprehensive training program is designed to help you apply what I’ve learned over the years to your practice — no matter what approaches you already use this will integrate beautifully into your work and add to your skills as a therapist.

I’ve put my heart and soul into crafting a meaningful training experience with a library of recorded teachings that are combined with real time demonstrations. You’ll work step-by-step in small groups with my trusted trainers and consultants over the course of the training and spend two sessions with me where you have the chance to ask questions and explore practices.

This program takes you beyond the basics. There is no other training program in the clinical application of Polyvagal Theory like this – and I’m proud to partner with PESI to offer it to you.

Space is limited to 48 participants...see full course details and register here to start your journey!

Sincerely,
Deb Dana, LCSW
